View this email in your browser

ASABA
Association of South African Black Actuarial Professionals

Our President, Paballo Mathosa, recently shared an inspiring Women's Month message on the importance of owning your power and using your voice unapologetically.

No matter your current role, remember that you belong at the table and have a unique opportunity to shape the future of our profession. As Theodore Roosevelt's famous quote reminds us, the credit ultimately belongs to the one who is truly in the arena.

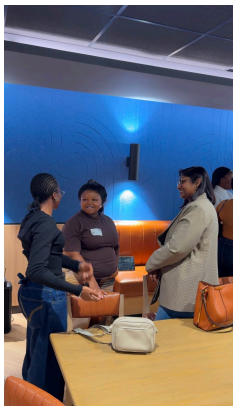

CLICK HERE TO WATCH THE VIDEO

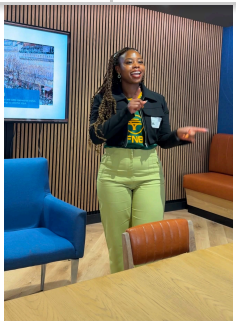

Women’s Committee

The Actuarial Women’s Commitee (AWC) celebrated Women’s Day with an inspiring morning centred around confidence, self-expression and connection. Sponsored by Liberty and hosted at Liberty’s Head Office, the event brought women together to celebrate the journey of becoming the woman they are meant to be - unapologetically and confidently.

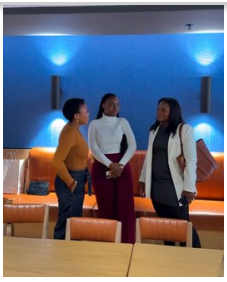

The morning featured a colour analysis with Liné Ferreira from The Persona Haus, who shared her expertise and her own inspiring journey of leaving the corporate world to pursue her creative passion. One of our attendees, won the opportunity to experience Liné’s expertise first-hand. All attendees also received a 15% discount towards their own colour consultation.
This was followed by an empowering confidence masterclass with Memory Zimba, centred around “Becoming HER”. Through an engaging session, we were reminded that becoming HER is not about becoming someone else, but about having the courage and confidence to own exactly who you are. The morning was rounded off with a beautiful brunch, meaningful conversations and opportunities to connect, along with AWC PopSockets from AWC member Mpumelelo Rapeane - a fun reminder to carry that confidence with us and capture the perfect selfies of the women we are becoming.

ASABA
Association of South African
Black Actuarial Professionals

Copyright (C) 2026 ASABA. All rights reserved.

Want to change how you receive these emails?

You can update your preferences or unsubscribe